It s appalling that Microsoft should even have to defend themselves in this frivolous display of Government Bureaucracy. Gates had more insight than the rest and should be rewarded justly for it. He built the system we all benefit from it everyday. It s called being a capitalist in an entrepreneurial society. You want to talk about anti-trust and monopoly take a look at the US postal service for God s sake. They are the worst run quasi-Government organization and have a monopoly on the delivery business yet are too bureaucratic to make a profit. The same customers (retail printers)that send them billions of dollars worth of postage every year they are now trying to unfairly compete with. Their website offers direct mail fulfillment and printing. Talk about an area where the Government should focus time. Leave Microsoft and Gates alone and look behind your own doors first!!
